Combination of Japanese ancestral traditions and modern cane-production technology

Kainos Kinpaku

The everlasting beauty.
Pure gold handicraft.

A collaboration with Kanazawa gold leaf artisans who remain faithful to its ancestral tradition.

金箔

The history of Kanazawa gold leaf dates back more than 400 years. The gold leaf has been used in various places for its beautiful sparkle; temples in Kyoto, lacquerware, Buddhist altars, textiles, and more. At present, almost 98% of Japanese gold leaf is produced in Kanazawa.

SINANO meets Japanese traditional handicrafts to produce innovative canes for next generation.

Kainos Sanada

“Samurai Ribbon” for a cane wrist strap

“Samurai Ribbon” as known as “Sanada-Himo” is one of the Japanese traditional fabrics. The name is from legendary samurai family SANADA.

Samurai used to use this woven ribbon for dressing up their swords, armor suits and helmets, or tying up important things to their waist with it. Recently, its toughness and beauty as traditional craftwork have been revalued in Japan.
